

First off, a quick review of the Scout Motto: Be Prepared. It means just that. It does not mean bring everything you can think of and it does not mean hope your buddy is prepared. There are many packing lists out there to consult, including on the troop website, but below is a basic place to start.

Additionally, with nearly monthly trip options, getting into a routine system regarding packing, transporting, and storing gear will save time and effort. For that, consider a duffel bag or a plastic bin that can be used to store items exclusively used when camping. Then, when the trip weekend comes around just add the remaining needed gear and you're ready to head to camp.

Regarding clothing, you may have heard the phrase "cotton kills". When cotton gets wet (from rain or perspiration) it holds moisture, conducts heat away from the body, and can cause chaffing. Stick to naturally wicking materials (e.g. merino wool) or synthetics (e.g. polyester).

Finally, be sure to leave electronics at home as they are not permitted at camp. Camping is a great time to disconnect and enjoy the natural world away from screen time. Happy trails!!
